Details of this Special

An Antique Electronic restoration is the replacement of all paper and electrolytic capacitors in an antique radio. More than 90% of the time this brings a radio back to its original or better operating condition. In this flat rate restoration, I will also include, if any or all are necessary, up to 3 small resistors the dial lamp, rectifier, and line cord. I will also clean, if necessary, all switches and controls, I'll also check the sensitivity and do an alignment only if absolutely necessary. All other parts and services will cost extra.

Normally the turn around time to restore a Zenith transoceanic is a day or two. If shipped by priority mail, it could take less than a week from the time you send it to me, Occasionally there are "complications" and the chassis needs parts beyond the paper and electrolytic capacitors and if necessary, dial lamp and line cord. This might make your set take longer to restore. Most of the time,, it does take less than a week if the entire payment is enclosed, See below for more details.
